By: Srilekha Deshpande

31-08-2018

The day were many students to showcase their talent which helped us to increase our knowledge and definitely meet a whole lot of new people .

It was the national student seminar conducted by the Presidency college, Bangalore. The theme of the seminar was " the world as I see it contemporary trends in humanities". There were different topics of different streams varying from journalism, psychology, political science and english literature. We had selected the topic "opportunity and challenges of new media" from journalism.

As we were participating from the journalism wing the participants included people doing their PhD , masters , scholars and of course the under graduate students. We had to present our research paper to the audience via a power point presentation. Each participant was given a time duration of 6mins . The chief guest of journalism wing was Dr. Bharagvi. The students were judged on the basis of the quality of paper, research done and of course the way we presented it.

After lunch the validation ceremony was held and we were adjoined the Third best Paper from Journalism wing. Our joy was boundless.
